STUPENDOUS TOBACCO SALE

The Burley Tobacco Growers Association Sells 54,000,000 Pounds of Tobacco to the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco, One of The Largest Tobacco Concerns in the Country.

Regular Association Prices Were Paid, But The Figures Were Withheld—President James C. Stone is Delighted With The Big Disposal—Part of Product Will be Exported.

Lexington, Oct. 10.—Fifty-four million pounds of tobacco were sold late yesterday by the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, through President and General Manager J. C. Stone, to the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, through its Kentucky vice president, T. H. Kirk. The tobacco was sold at the association prices for its regular grades, President Stone said. Part of the tobacco, it was said, is for export. The sale included almost the entire holdings of the association.

The negotiations leading up to this, the largest sale of burley tobacco to a single manufacturer in the history of the country, had been going on for more than a week. There was general rejoicing in the ranks of the burley association members and officials when the deal finally was completed.

No information was given by Mr. Stone as to the amount of money involved, as it was not known just how much the tobacco would bring until the transaction finally is completed by the actual taking over of the tobacco. Both President Stone and Director of Warehouses Barker have said for some time that the association would sell all its holdings because of the needs of the manufacturers and the lightness of the 1922 crop, and that it was very likely that a considerable portion of the holdings would be taken by those manufacturers who already had purchased from the stocks of the association.

President James C. Stone, of the organization, is delighted with the huge sale.

A. D. Bradshaw Wins at Chattanooga, Tenn.

A. D. Bradshaw, the widely known breeder of Aberdeen Angus cattle, of Danville, had great success in winning premiums at the big interstate fair at Chattanooga, Tenn., last week. Among the premiums won were the following: Groups of three bulls, fourth; for best bull, 3 years old and older, first; junior yearlings, third; championship prize on senior champion bull, first; and junior champion bull, first; cows, third; 3 years old and older, third; two year old heifers, fourth, graded herd prizes, second; yearling herds, fourth; calf herds, fourth; senior yearling steers, first and second. Mr. Bradshaw's "proud ruler" won the $15 championship steer prize and also first and second prizes on herds of three steers.

To be 100 Per Cent Efficient You Must have 100 per cent Flow of Nerve Energy

This is not possible if a nerve running from the spinal column is pressed upon.

To be in health, the stomach for instance, must receive 100 per cent flow of nerve energy.

We do not know that we are sick until our nerves propel the message to our brains. Then we feel pain or ill at ease.

By adjusting the spine at the point where the nerve is impinged the pressure is relieved and you get 100 per cent flow of nerve energy.

Health invariably follows.

DEMOCRATS FLAY RECORD OF G. O. P.

Committee Resolution Points To Republican Misrule in State and Nation

A resolution asking Democrats of Kentucky to make extraordinary efforts to elect Congressional candidates and Judge David A. McCandles in the Third Appellate District was passed at a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee last week at Louisville.

Expected action on the Clayhorne case was not forthcoming because the committee lacked a quorum. The meeting resolved itself into a mass meeting instead and J. E. Robinson introduced a resolution criticizing the National and State Republicans for their disregard of party pledges.

No date has been set for the next meeting of the committee.

The Robinson resolution read: "Whereas, the Republican Administration at Washington and the Republican Administration at Frankfort was elected on unlimited promises of rigid economy in all departments of the Federal and State governments, to reduce salaries and the number of offices, and to decrease the burdens of taxation on the people, and to prevent profiteering and corruption in high places, and

"Whereas, both the national and State Republican Administrations have broken every promise and pledge made to the people to obtain their election, and wanton waste and reckless extravagance are everywhere in evidence, salaries and the number of offices have been increased; shameful profiteering remains unmolested; corruption flourishes in high places, and the burden of taxation on the people has been multiplied and increased fearfully, and

"Whereas, these Republican leaders and politicians have proved faithless to every trust and false to every promise and have betrayed ruthlessly the confidence of the people of Kentucky and the nation; a vast horde of Federal and State officeholders are tramping the country like an army upon whom tribute may be levied to create a huge slush fund to defy the wishes of the people; special interests are being protected; strikes and disorders prevail; everywhere governmental incompetence reigns and the people have no relief; soldiers are marshaled and extraordinary writs and remedies are resorted to; and this army of recreant Republican politicians and officeholders, feeding from the public crib, are now attempting to defeat the faithful representatives of the people in order to perpetuate themselves in office, to increase further their salaries and the number of offices and the more heavily to increase the burdens of taxation on the people without an adequate benefit in return.

"Be it resolved by the State Democratic and Executive Committee of Kentucky that we appeal to every Democrat and to every patriotic Republican in the State of Kentucky to rally to the support of the Democratic nominees for Congress and the Judge of the Court of Appeals in the Third Appellate district, where certain Republican politicians and officeholders, operating around Louisville and Frankfort, are attempting to bring the Kentucky Court of Appeals under subjection to their partisan and profligate party, and we appeal to all patriotic citizens, regardless of party, to aid in the overthrow of these power-drunk Republican politicians and officeholders, and do all in their power to advance the campaign now being waged by the Democratic party to restore fair play, prosperity, and the rights of the people, and to rebuke those faithless politicians and officeholders, who have so brazenly broken their promises and so flagrantly disregarded the people and have increased their troubles, embarrassment, and the burden of taxes beyond all reasonable endurance."

Important Meeting

Mrs. John E. Stormes of Lancaster, was in Danville this morning and announced a meeting of the Woman's Federated Clubs of this district in Danville on October 21st. Mrs. Stormes is Governor of the District and a good one we might add. She said it was a bad day to hold it, inasmuch as it is the day that Centre and Harvard meet, but that it would be called at 9 A. M. and every effort would be made to get through the program before the returns begin to come from the Stadium.—Danville Advocate.

HORRIBLE FIND

Mr. Elbert Lane, While Fishing in Dis River, Brings up a Gruesome Find—a Basket with a Small Baby and Blanket

Mr. Elbert Lane, while fishing in King Mill Dam, right under the covered bridge, caught his spinner upon a basket and brought it to shore recently. He found that the basket contained a small baby, possibly under six months old. The infant was wrapped in a blanket and had been in the water long enough to disintegrate, as the body fell apart when brought out. Coroner Rice was summoned and held an inquest. The verdict was that the baby was put in the basket and sunk in the river.—Danville Advocate.

Saturday Picnic

The "Juniors" of the Methodist church, of Paint Lick enjoyed a delightful picnic at Cartersville last Saturday. Dozens of delicious sandwiches and cookies were prepared on the day before and at nine o'clock the merry bunch of boys and girls mounted a wagon yelling:

"Rah! Rah! Zip! Rah, Rah, boom! Juniors, Juniors, give us room." We are classes One and Two. To "Walnut" church, we are true.

They frequently stopped at places of interest and gave forth their yell. Miss Elizabeth Hensley and Mrs. Virginia Beasley, their teachers, accompanied the Juniors. A Camp fire was made under an immense tree, where hot coffee was served (and a little later a shower) with our good lunch. The afternoon was spent in gathering autumn flowers, taking pictures and playing games.

Warrants Dismissed

The cases of Tom Wells, Hiram Bigby, Bert Todd and Mrs. Tennessee Bigby, all charged with violating the prohibition laws, were brought up in Judge Treadway's court yesterday morning for trial, the cases having been set for this day, the arrests being made by sheriff Robinson and deputies about ten days ago.

Attorneys for the defense read recent rulings of the court of appeals covering such cases, which said that search warrants could not be issued, without proper supporting affidavits, and that the arresting officers had no such evidence, so Judge Treadway dismissed the cases against all the parties.

Visits Old Home

Mr. Charles P. Ware, of Somerset, paid this office a pleasant call yesterday afternoon and announced that it was his first visit to his old home county for twenty years. Mr. Ware was reared in this county and is a son of the late S. L. Ware who lived on the Richmond road at that time. Mr. Ware is now in the railroad business at Somerset and enjoys one of the most lucrative positions in the Southern Railway.

He tells us he has two sons living; one now being on the Pacific, while the other is on the Atlantic. Both holding positions of honor and of merit.

Father and Son

J. L. Coldiron and his son, Boyd Coldiron, of Paint Lick, were tried in Judge Treadway's court last Monday, charged with breach of the peace, and were each fined $50.00 and ten days in jail, by a jury before whom they were tried. It seems that there has been some feeling between the two for several months, resulting recently in personal encounters. The fines and jail sentences were appealed to the circuit court. Both were required to give $1,000 peace bonds.

Products, Exposition And Style Show

Attention is called to the advertisement of the Danville Products and Style Show that will be held in that city Oct. 17, 18, 19 and 20th. It is a community affair and the proceeds will go to charity. Premiums will be given for all farm products, needle work, preserves, canned goods, etc. Pig, poultry and dog show. Prizes of all kinds for all people. Beautifully decorated booths, exhibiting the latest styles. Volvill entertainment and dancing each evening. Music and fun all the time.

LANCASTER HIGH TRIUMPHS OVER DANVILLE

W. Robinson for The Locals Makes Sensational Run for Marker

Team From Little Britain Outclassed By Captain Cox's Lads

The best game of foot ball seen on the local gridiron this season was the one against the Danville High School lads here Friday when they carried home the smallest end of a 23 to 7 score. This makes the fourth game this year with Lancaster High winning them all, three being played here this far and one away from home.

"Battling Bill" Anderson started the pigskin going when he caught from the air the ball and gained 40 yards on a long pass from Capt. Cox and he together with the rest of the team by line plunges and end runs succeeded in carrying the old ball over the white line for Lancaster High's first marker against the out-weighted team of Capt. Davis, of Danville.

Cox kicked the goal for the extra point. Danville High came back in the second quarter and managed to tie the score just as the half ended.

The second half of the game found the local lads fighting every minute of play and deliberately outplayed the boys from Boyle off their feet. It was in this half that the locals uncorked everything that they had and outclassed the visitors on every play, and it was during this half that W. Robinson, the speedy half back for Lancaster High and one who has the name of "An all Kentucky Half" zig-zagged his way through the entire Danville line from the 50 yard line and made his way to the goal for another marker for the green and white jerseyed men. It is safe to say that every man of the Danville squad had his hands on Robinson during this sensational play, but the perfect interference that his team mates gave him, cutting the opponents down also featured.

On the kickoff again the ball was handed to the clever full back C. Gastineau, who hit the line like a galloping steed and tore through the heavy line of the visitors at will. This lad succeeded in carrying the pigskin over the line for two of the three touchdowns for Lancaster Hi. The final marker came in the last quarter when Capt. Cox in the last few minutes of play from the 38 yard line drop-kicked the ball between the goal post for three more points which made the final tally 23 to 7, in favor of the sturdy little team representing L. H. S.

Twelve men were used in the battle Friday and they consisted of the following, who played a wonderful game of ball. The Lancaster High School foot ball team has no individual stars. They all say that it requires eleven men to play the game and they are each deserving of the credit that they so richly deserve, when they outclassed and defeated the strong Danville aggregation here.

Bratton at Center played a good game and was in all plays. He handled himself fine at passing the ball. The guards consisting of G. D. Robinson and H. C. Cox, as well as the tackles, consisting of Kavanaugh and Crutchfield were in every play. When the visitors tried to pierce their line, they found that they were as strong as a brick wall. The visitors were not even able to make a dint in this quartettes line. The ends Estes, Anderson and Lawson, were all up to form and snapping passes were their hobby, while on the defense they broke up many plays. V. Gastineau, the clever and fleet quarter, time and time again would break through and tackle the visitors before they were able to start on a line plunge or end run.

The Danville lads have a very good team, considering the fact that they have three coaches with them at all times, and then again, that they can get pointers from the famous Centre College boys. However, they need still a little more men to work with if they try to keep pace with the strong eleven led by Capt. Cox.

Athletic Director McRoberts had twenty men out in uniforms Friday, although only twelve were used. The following lads who have made the first team should take just as much credit in winning Friday's game as any man on the team. Had Capt. Cox needed any extra assistance he would have called on either Henry, Gooch, Speake, Moore, Brown, Arnold, Creech or Elliott. Referee—Geo. Heber, of State.

LEXINGTON ROAD, GOOD Will be Completed in Another Week

The Lexington road from Lancaster to Camp Nelson, a distance of seven miles will be completed within ten days, as only one and a half miles more are to be reconstructed under the present contract with Messrs. Hughes and Ware. At the completion of the road it will be in shape to be taken over just as soon as the fences are moved back a proper distance from the roadway. The State department will not under any circumstances take over a highway for future maintenance, under the existing statutes which require that all fences be at least 20 feet from the center of the road.

County Judge Treadway and County Road Engineer, Irvine Stapp have sent official notices to all whose fences are in too far and it is to be hoped that the owners of these fences will proceed at once to comply with the law, so that the roads may be turned over to the state this fall, and that the proper top dressing of tarvia and gravel may be applied before the winter rains and snow do further damage.

The completion of this road, which is on the main line of the Dixie Air-line Highway running from Cincinnati to Chattanooga, means more than words can express, to Garrard county and with the completion of the Lincoln county end to the Garrard line, which is promised early next year, the only direct highway to the South, will be nearing completion.

Paint Lick Plays The Colonels FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13th.

Manager J. H. Raiston is not leaving any stone unturned for his biggest game of the season, which by the way, closes the season for the famous Paint Lick nine when they cross bats with the Louisville Colonels. Mgr. Raiston is to be highly congratulated upon turning out such a winning base ball nine as he has had the season just closing, and that a big crowd will be on hand to watch the Paint Lick nine "lick" the Colonels goes without saying.

This game will be called promptly at 2:30 on the base ball diamond at Paint Lick. You will enjoy seeing two of Garrard's old time war horses in action. They are: "Bill" Clei Tatem and "Dick" Lackey. The admission is small, considering the class of ball that you will see and this day will be one of Paint Lick's biggest. Better go out and root for the boys.

Foot Ball

That Lancaster Hi School has this year one of the best foot ball teams ever known to that institution goes without saying, and that they are deserving of the support of every man, woman and child is realized and talked of by the many admirers of this year's team, not because they have a winning team thus far, but because they have a little team with great prospects for a successful season.

The team this year consists of twenty of the finest lads to be found in any school in Kentucky. They are not fighting as individual stars, but are working together as a unit. They appreciate the word "ORGANIZATION" and are standing together as one representing a team of eleven.

They play the strong eleven from Winchester, the strongest team in Clark County here today at 3 P. M. Th Clark county here today at 3 P. M. The stores and business houses have been closing during the afternoons that the locals play here and giving the school the backing that they deserve. A large crowd was out to see the game Friday, when Danville Hi was their victim. Now let's all go out and see them down the Clark County High School eleven from Winchester today at 3 P. M.

GOOD APPOINTMENT

Billy Swope Named Campaign Chairman for Garrard County

Hon. Ralph Gilbert made a capital appointment when he named Billy Swope to look after his interests during the coming campaign. As chairman of the Garrard County Campaign Committee, Swope will add new zeal and plenty of pep into the campaign and announces that Mr. Gilbert will speak to the voters of Garrard and adjoining counties in Lancaster, Monday, October 23rd., it being the regular county court day. He is making every effort to have Hon. Albin W. Barkley to speak here during the month, or at least before the election November 7th., and it is possible that he will arrange to have him here on the evening of the 23rd., as he addresses the voters at Mt. Vernon on that afternoon.

Mr. Swope accepts the honor gracefully and comes out with the following announcement, which has the proper ring.

Here's what he says: "Having been appointed Chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee of Garrard County, I wish to state, to the voters of this county and congressional district, that I consider it a high privilege and a distinct honor to serve in such capacity. Because:

Since the fall of ancient Rome no nation or empire has more keenly felt the need of good office-holders than the United States of America does at the present time.

This is the stage of stagnation, so to speak, in the life of our nation and, unless we wish to follow in the footsteps of the ancient Roman Empire, we must refrain from electing to public office incapable and inefficient men.

If we heed the warnings on History's pages we will elect efficient, energetic, intelligent, and capable men. Ralph Gilbert, of Shelbyville, is the candidate, on the Democratic ticket, for Congress from this (8th. Ky.) District and I know of no man more capable of representing the good people of the Eighth Kentucky District in the 68th. Congress of the United States of America.

Therefore, I recommend him to all voters, who wish to have "the best man possible in office," and pledge my every effort toward the furtherance of his candidacy.

Signed J. W. SWOPE, Chairman Democratic Campaign Com. of Garrard County.

A Plea For Centre College

October 6th., 1922. Editor of the Central Record, Lancaster, Ky.

Dear Sir:—

The Presbyterians of Kentucky are now engaged in a campaign which I think should interest every graduate of Centre College not only in Kentucky but throughout the country. They propose raising $1,000,000 of which $300,000 will go to our old Alma Mater and if this amount is secured the General Education Board of New York will give an additional $200,000. It is almost needless to state that our college is badly in need of this money. Strongly as it is entrenched in the affections of our people it must meet competition and its needs should be supplied with very little trouble by its friends.

The most pressing needs are a DORMITORY, MORE MEMBERS OF THE FACULTY, AND ENDOWMENT.

I trust you will give this letter publicity in the aid of a worthy cause.

Sincerely, Paul B. Boyd, Centre '16.

Monkey Face Owl

A monkey face owl was brought to this office last Saturday afternoon by Collis Amon and attracted quite a lot of attention. It was a wise looking old guy and seemed delighted that he was amusing so many kids, the like of which they had never seen before. The owl was captured in the county.

Masculine Luxury.

A man's idea of luxury is being able to always buy new socks and throw away the old ones—not to save his wife darning, but so he can wear hose that is not full of holes.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

First Successful Time Locks.

The time lock was first suggested in 1831 by an Englishman, William Rutherford; in 1857 Holbrook and Fish of the United States devised another, but the first successful time locks put on the market were the Sergeant and Yale locks, brought out in 1875.

Photographic Hint.

The ordinary photographic plate, which is not color sensitive, is really blind to certain colors. These colors are reds, yellows and greens. The result is that all are rendered black in the print. Suppose one wanted to photograph a shawl with a design in black, red, yellow, and green. The ordinary plate would render these colors almost all the same. In the picture it would be difficult to say where the red ended and the yellow began. But by using a color-sensitive plate and a color filter on the lens, the differences would be shown and the design would be clear.

Murat Brave, but a Coward.

Murat was a most singular character. He loved—I may say adored—me. Order him to attack four or five thousand men in such a direction, it was done in a moment; but leave him to himself, he was an imbecile without judgment. I cannot conceive how so brave a man could be such a coward. He was nowhere brave except before the enemy. But take him into the cabinet, he was a poltroon without judgment or decision.—Napoleon.

Vegetable Glow Worms.

A scientist named Ehrman speaks in enthusiastic terms of "vegetable glow worms," as he calls them, which he observed gleaming on the walls and in the crevices of Swedish mines. In Bohemia, the caves are not uncommonly illuminated by this interesting cryptogam; and, according to Philson, sufficient light has been emitted in English coal mines from this source to enable miners to read ordinary print.

Farm and Home News From over Kentucky

Community meetings are playing an important part in helping Union county farmers and their wives solve many of their problems of farm and home improvement. County Agent L. C. Brewer says. A total of 327 persons recently attended three meetings held in the county in one week.

Livingston county poultry keepers showed a lively interest in demonstration held during the summer just past by County Agent L. C. Pace and the extension division of the College of Agriculture at Lexington to show them how to separate the laying and loafing hens in their flocks. A total of 20 demonstrations were held. One hundred eighty-five of the 600 hens handled proved to be low producers.

Two thousand acres of corn and soybeans grown together in Nelson county during the summer just past have helped farmers in that section of the state to realize the value of this combination for soil improvement and hogging down purposes. County Agent C. L. Hill says. From $3 to $6.12 worth of nitrogen was added to the soil by each acre of the beans.

More than 65 McLean county farm boys and girls took part in a recent junior agricultural club fair held by County Agent Robert H. Ford. They exhibited a total of 96 chickens and 38 pigs. A number of interested McLean county persons encouraged the youngsters in their junior farm work by posting a total of $175 in cash prizes.

Judges should adopt a new rule. When granting divorces they should remarry the principals and tell them to start all over again.

A GOOD FRIEND

A good friend stands by you when in need. Lancaster people tell how Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test. D. C. Sandes, prop. lumber and coal business of Campbell St., endorsed Doan's four years ago and again confirms the story. Could you ask for more convincing testimony?

"I used Doan's Kidney Pills with very satisfactory results and I am glad to endorse them," says Mr. Sandes. "When my kidneys got out of order I have a dull, nagging backache and a soreness through my kidneys. My kidneys act irregularly, too. Doan's Kidney Pills from Stormes Drug Store relieve the trouble and put my kidneys in good order." (Statement given Nov. 11, 1916.)

On Feb. 24, 1921, Mr. Sandes added: "I have the same opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills as when I endorsed them in 1916. I am glad to recommend Doan's to anyone for they are very reliable."

The Return to Normalcy from Farmer's Viewpoint

What is a dollar? In 1920 it took 150 of them to buy a good beef; now the farmer gets less than 50 of them for the same beef. But if the farmer owes a note for $150 instead of paying it with one beef he has to pay with three. That is true of all that the farmers have to sell. In this way he has been chiseled out of ten billions of dollars in the last 18 months. That is what makes him love "normalcy," and that is the "wave of prosperity" that is "sweeping the country." His corn is yet to be harvested, but they are working up the "wave to fool him again this fall."—Exchange.

Search Warrants Got On Suspicion Illegal

Evidence obtained by officers who secured a search warrant merely on suspicion that liquor is being held is not competent, the Court of Appeals held the other day in reversing the decision of the Fayette Circuit Court in the case against Nannie Price, convicted on a charge of illegally possessing intoxicating liquor.

The opinion, rendered by Judge William Rogers Clay, holds that the constitution guarantees the freedom of persons and property from search and seizure and that a search is illegal when made on a warrant sworn to merely on information that liquor is held.

The Fayette Circuit Court fined Nannie Price $100, sentenced her to forty days in jail and put her under a peace bond of $1,000.

The Game of Love

By JUSTIN WENTWOOD

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

"Hugh, by heavens!"
Hugh's figure, side by side with Lucy's, paced through the dark, and Henry Wilcox watched them somberly from the window of his office.

At first hideous thoughts filled his heart, but then he grew calmer. He had no great passions; all that he had he had bestowed upon those two. It was life. It was what he should have expected.

He would live on and on in his great, lonely house, as he had done so many years.

Henry Wilcox had never married. He had loved in youth and he had been betrayed. All his love had gone out to his nephew, Hugh, whom he had taken in childhood from his dissolute brother, and to his ward, Lucy Pendle. He had adopted her, too, when her father, a distant cousin of his, had died. That was years ago. And she had twined herself round his heart.

Lucy was twenty-two. Henry Wilcox was exactly twice her age. He had always known the day must come when he would lose her. But he had not expected that it would be Hugh. Hugh and she had grown up together from childhood. It was a year since they had met, and now . . .

Well, he had been a fool to cherish those dreams of her. An old fool, for what part had youth with age? A mad fool, to dream that Lucy could ever grow to care for him.

They were coming in. He read the happiness in their faces. Lucy came to him and kissed him. She would never know how it seared his heart, that touch of her lips on his.

"Had a good time, young people?" he asked cheerily.

"Pretty good," said Hugh. "By the way, Uncle, you know I'm leaving in the morning? I've got something I want to say to you first."

"Tomorrow morning," said Wilcox, with the mad desire to postpone his inevitable fate.

And he paced his room for hours. There had been a time when he almost thought that Lucy cared for him. What a fool he had been!

He went into the living room. "Good night, my dear," he said, taking her into his arms and kissing her again. "I hope you'll be very happy," he continued.

Lucy's eyes filled with tears. "Oh, my dear, if you could know!" she murmured.

"Now I won't have you crying when you've nothing but happiness in store for you!" said Wilcox. "You women don't seem to know the difference between smiles and tears."

"They're not always very far from each other, are they, my dear?" Lucy murmured.

She looked at him in such a strange way as she went out of the room. He wondered whether she guessed his feeling for her. Yes, women were intuitive! Lucy must have known.

He waited for Hugh next morning in his office. Hugh came running down the stairs, carrying his traveling bag, youthful, vigorous, alert.

"You wanted to see me, Hugh?" asked Wilcox.

"Yes," answered Hugh, looking a little sheepish.

"It's about Lucy, I suppose?" "It is," said Hugh. There was a sort of strange challenge in his voice.

"You want to marry her?"

"No, I don't," answered Hugh, and Wilcox stared at him in astonishment. "I don't understand you," he said coldly. "I thought you and she cared for each other."

"We do, all right, but not in that way, Uncle Henry. The fact is, we get on each other's nerves dreadfully. But I've been playing gooseberry ever since I came back. You see, Lucy thinks she's in love with another man—but she isn't sure he cares for her, and—between ourselves—I think that's her idea of—sort of encouraging him, because he'll never speak unless he thinks he has a chance." He clasped his uncle's hand. "I guess it's all right, isn't it?" he said. "Good luck."

"You infernal scoundrel!" ejaculated Wilcox.

But he could not trust himself to say another word. And he could hardly believe, He waited, watching Hugh's little figure disappear down the drive, and then went into Lucy.

"My dear, I'm an old fool, and perhaps I misunderstood him. But he gave me to understand that your heart was engaged. Is it?"

"Why, my dear, it's been engaged ever since I can remember!" Lucy answered.

"To—to—?"

She put her arms softly about his neck. "And I was sure you cared, and there wasn't any other way, guardian, dear," she murmured.

Missed Main Event.

Bishop Moss of Nashville was talking about church sensationalism.

"Some ministers," he said, "give us moving pictures. Others give us plays. Others still have themselves lit up with colored lights while preaching, as on the stage."

"This sort of thing is not wise. It reminds me of little Willie somehow."

"Little Willie's father took him to Sunday school for the first time one Sunday, and on the way home, in order to see if the youngster had learned anything, he asked:

"Who was it killed Goliath?"

"I dunno," said little Willie. "I was settin' on a back seat and couldn't see."

Teach The Child

It is just as easy to teach a child the habit of saving as it is to permit it to acquire the habit of spending.

The toy bank may be used to teach a child the value of saving and the safety of banking. But parents permit the child to use the toy bank as a toy when very young, and then just at the time when they should follow up the toy bank stage with a real bank account they give the matter no further attention.

It is unjust to the child—there would be more savers and fewer spenders if parents did their duty.

THE BROWN DOG

By MILDRED WHITE

The brown dog barked—and wagged his tail. Peg had been badly frightened until the feathery tail began its welcome. She was stalled at a lonely part of the road, and a farm lad had gone to seek gasoline for her car. The dog had appeared, ferociously barking, and she had been about to scale a fence when the growlings turned to peaceable overture and Peg, sinking down on the grass, put forth a caressing hand.

"You lovely thing!" she exclaimed. The dog politely extended a paw in acknowledgment. He was hot and dusty, and had evidently traveled far. Peg concluded that, following a car, he had been lost. There was no collar or tag to aid identification. Cradling the delighted animal in her arms, the girl determined to keep him for her own, if the farm lad could give no information regarding an owner. He would be exactly what she had been longing for in the way of protector in her isolated country bungalow.

Peg had rented the bungalow, thinking it advantageous to her work as an illustrator. The local views were beautiful. When she had rented the pretty, old-fashioned place, Aunt Phyllis had cheerfully agreed to be her companion there. Aunt Phyllis, with characteristic unconcern, had at the last moment changed her plans and broken her promise. So Peg was alone but for old Mrs. Flinn, who helped with the meals and had rheumatism. Mrs. Flinn could not be called upon as a protector.

Fortunately, here was a dog, fairly begging adoption. Peg tried several names upon him. He was contentedly indifferent to them all.

"You must be Alphonse or Adolphus," she laughed. The farm boy returning, suggested the name of "Brownie." It worked like a charm.

Peg, happy in the assurance of a protector, lay down that night to peaceful sleep. She had a long walk with Brownie before breakfast, and sketched him afterward. Mrs. Flinn fed him generously, the feathery tail waved in grateful appreciation, then Brownie disappeared.

Peg walked all the way to the village to put an advertisement in the "lost" column of the town paper. It was on the way home that her delighted eyes spied Brownie. He was tied to a stone sun dial in the center of an enclosed garden.

Boldly Peg entered the garden. Still more boldly she knelt to free the dog. A man, walking slowly along a pipe bordered path, turned to look at her curiously. Then he came forward.

"May I ask," he said calmly, "why you are untieing my dog?"

"Your dog?" Peg was indignant. Brownie is mine. He was stolen this morning from before my bungalow. I have just come from inserting an advertisement of loss. The dog is my protector. Why do you harbor him?"

"So he is your protector? You live alone in this isolation?"

He was really a friendly sort of person.

"For the present" Peg told him. The situation seemed to require explanation. "I hoped to improve my drawing here. The spot is so beautiful, inspirational; I am an illustrator. Some day when I have my big commission I hope to be ready for it."

"I see." The young man bent to assist her in unfastening Brownie's bonds. "We did not know, when we confiscated him this morning, that he had become your property," he said. The dog rejoiced in his freedom, caressingly his brown nose brushed Peg's hand.

"You can see that he knows me," she triumphed.

It was later in the day, when she had gone on an errand to Mrs. Flinn's kitchen, that the young man of the mysterious house entered the bungalow garden. Peg's latest sketch lay open to view—Brownie, stretched in the quaint stone dooryard; Mrs. Flinn, roughly sketched, offering him food from a shining can. The man examined the picture carefully. When Peg came out he was idly patting the dog's head. Silently the girl stood before him; Brownie, stretching his long length, stood with his two paws resting confidently on the stranger's shoulders, his loving eyes in satisfaction on the stranger's face.

"I thought," Peg said at last, "that he would be a protector, and now he is as friendly to you as can be."

"Which may be accounted for by the fact," the man returned quietly, "that he is my dog. You picked him up that day before I could go back for him with my car." He smiled at the embarrassment which showed in Peg's crimson cheeks.

"And as Brownie is willing to divide his time between us, he shall still be your protector. He has been, perhaps, an interesting messenger between us. I have been studying your drawing, Miss Illustrator, and I rather fancy that you are on your way to the big commission. I may be able to start you. Would you care to make the pictures for my coming book? I am Wallace Howe."

Peg stared. "Not thee Wallace Howe?" she asked faintly.

The man smiled his nice smile. "The only one I know," he answered carelessly.

"It is wonderful," breathed Peg. Wallace Howe smiled. "It is," he said.

Everyone is rejoicing over the recent rain, as the drought in this community had reached quite a serious stage. Stock water had gotten very scarce and a number of farmers were compelled to haul it for quite a distance. Drinking water was also getting quite scarce. The pastures and gardens were dried up almost completely. The outlook now is somewhat brighter and a great deal more encouraging.

We will now enjoy a few hours of industrial peace—or at least our imaginations can run that far.

SOY BEANS TAKE PLACE OF OATS

Production of Seed During Past Few Years in Corn Belt Has Become Profitable.

SEEKING COMMERCIAL OUTLET

Possibilities of Utilizing Crop for Oil and Meal Had Much to Do With Increased Acreage—Grower
Afforded Cash Crop.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The soy bean is rapidly taking a place as a major crop in the farming systems of the corn belt, replacing oats to a considerable extent and taking part of the corn acreage. Although primarily used for forage, pasture and ensilage, the growing of seed during the last few years has been a very profitable industry. The production of seed has now increased to the point where the supply greatly exceeds the demands for planting.

Seek Commercial Outlet.

County soy-bean associations, growers, county agents and extension officials, notably in Illinois and Indiana, have concerned themselves in the development of a commercial outlet of the seed. As a result, the production of oil and meal from corn belt grown soy beans seems to be definitely assured for the season of 1922. Several mills in Indiana and Illinois have become interested in the possibilities of the soy bean as source of oil and meal. Two mills in Illinois have planned to use about 750,000 bushels this season, while other mills are planning on a smaller scale.

Although definite figures are not available on the acreage of soy beans in the various states, reports to the United States Department of Agriculture indicate very large increases in acreage for seed production and forage purposes throughout the northern and corn belt states. The possibilities of utilizing domestic grown beans for oil and meal no doubt had much to do with the large increase in acreage for seed. Such a commercial outlet affords the grower another cash crop as corn and wheat.

Ready Market Indicated.

The various ways in which the soy bean and its products are utilized in the United States indicate a ready market for the commercial production of soy-bean seed. Soy-bean oil is largely used in the manufacture of soaps and paints, and it is also used in the manufacture of lard and butter substitutes, rubber substitutes, linoleum, printing ink, and as a salad oil. The cake or meal is a superior cattle feed and of high value for human consumption.

HOGGING OFF CORN AND PEAS

Mixture Makes Reasonably Good Balanced Ration and Animals Thrive Well on It.

In hogging off corn and cowpeas, the pigs and hogs eat the beans only, and not the vines and foliage. This legume seed is relatively high in protein, balancing the starchy corn. The mixture makes a reasonably good balanced ration; the hogs grow on it and gain in both flesh and fat; and there is more of the mixed feed than with corn alone.

FEED-FARMING IS IMPORTANT

Department of Agriculture Has Established Project Which Deals With It Exclusively.

Owing to the importance of feed-farming industry, the United States Department of Agriculture has established a project which deals with it exclusively. It furnishes information to prospective breeders, as well as to those already engaged in the industry, which helps them to overcome obstacles and avoid pitfalls.

AT TEN O'CLOCK PROMPT

We have been commissioned by W. T. King, Sr., and W. T. King, Jr., as executors of the late Howard King to sell the following property on the above date for the High Dollar without Reserve or Limit.

LOCATION—Right on the Dixie Highway, about 3 miles from Bryantsville in Garrard County, about 10 miles from Nicholasville and convenient to Lancaster and Danville.

TRACT NO. 1—Contains 86 acres and is known as the "Glass Farm" or "Broadus Farm." All in blue grass, meadow and stubble except about 8 acres in corn. Lays well and well watered by never failing springs, etc. Some fruit. Nice four room cottage with porch, 10 acre tobacco barn and all other necessary outbuildings. Most of this farm is sandstone land. A dandy little place for some one and right on the Dixie Airline Highway.

TRACT NO. 2—Known as the "John Will Poor" or "Carrie Bolling" farm and containing 526 acres in all will be subdivided into two tracts by the Dixie Highway. Tract "A" contains 148 acres, all in clover. Limestone land, lays well and watered by pond, good springs, etc. Old orchard. Neat residence of five rooms, two porches and all necessary outbuildings. Ready to "Punch" and make money.

Tract "B"—Just across the Dixie Highway from tract "A" contains 378 acres of which 193 acres are in corn, hemp, tobacco and balance in blue grass sod. Limestone and sandstone land. 100 acres of this tract in river bottoms, none better. Residence of eight or nine rooms, cellar, several barns, one of which is an extra good one that cost about $4,000.00, several tenant houses, garage, and one of the best watered farms in Garrard county. Three large cracker jack, never failing springs, ponds, the river and cistern at house. This one is a Money Maker and Dividend Producer.

LIVE STOCK—6 cows and calves, 3 steers, 1 bull, 9 head of mules, extra good ones; 7 head of horses and mares and one colt, 142 hogs, 115 sheep, etc.

FARMING IMPLEMENTS—Gasoline engine, 2 two-horse wagons, hay rake, mowers, binders, cultivators, harrows, wheat drills, harness, a number of plows, Blizzards Cutter, in fact all tools necessary to operate a large boundary of land like this, 10,000 tobacco sticks, one Essex car, in good condition, all household and kitchen furniture, etc.

CROPS—150 acres in corn, 12 acres in tobacco, 45 tons of hay, one ton of oats, 39 acres in hemp, etc.

Remember this is an Executor's sale. This estate has got to be wound up. This stuff must SELL for whatever it will bring. The bridge is off. It is left absolutely with YOU to say what these valuable holdings are worth. Mr. Investor and Speculator, it will pay you to look this property over. We invite the closest inspection. It is well located, good productive land and an ideal place to raise stock.

Be on hand promptly at ten A. M. on THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26th, and pound your bids at her. The sale will be held on Tract No. 2.

Terms easy and made known on day of sale.

RED CROSS PUTS UP $9,739,872

Year's Budget Stresses Relief and Services at Home and Overseas.

MILLIONS FOR VETERAN AID

Over $3,000,000 Allotted to the Disabled—Foreign Work Lessens.

Washington.—Expenditures totaling $9,739,872.47 for carrying through its program of services and relief during the fiscal year in the United States and overseas are authorized in the budget of the American Red Cross, effective July 1, 1922. This total is $2,735,975 less than the expenditures for the last fiscal year, when disbursements reached $12,475,847.69, it is announced at National Headquarters in a statement emphasizing the necessity of continued support of the organization by enrollment during the annual Roll Call, November 11-November 30 inclusive. This total for the budget is exclusive of the large financial operations of the 3,300 active Red Cross Chapters, which, it is estimated, will more than double the total.

War Veterans Have First Call

First call on Red Cross funds is for the disabled ex-service men, of whom 27,487 were receiving treatment from the Government on June 1 last. This work for veterans and their families in a wide variety of service that the Government is not authorized to render and for which it has neither funds nor facilities has the call on $3,000,000 during the current year, or about $300,000 more than was expended last year for soldier service. Adding the funds disbursed in this humanitarian work of physical reconstruction following the World War by the Chapters throughout the country will approximate a total for the current year approaching $10,000,000. This work, in the opinion of the Surgeon General's office, will not reach its peak before 1926.

Through its Chapters the American Red Cross is equipped to find the individual ex-service man, help him in his problems and difficulties, provide immediately for his necessities, and open the way for him to the Government compensation and aid to which he is entitled. The extension of this work to the families of such men proves to them that the Red Cross has lost none of its sympathy nor will to service manifested in wartime. Similarly the service goes out to the men still in the Army and Navy, 11,087 of whom were under treatment in Government hospitals on June 1, 1922.

Greater Domestic Program

This year—after five years of constructive effort during the war and after the armistice—brings with it a greater responsibility for domestic service to the American Red Cross. The budget for foreign operations, however, totals $3,404,000, but of this amount $1,834,000 is for medical relief and hospital supplies for Russia, which is a part of the gift made by the American Red Cross in 1921 to the Russian famine relief work of the American Relief Administration program. The child health service in Europe continues, moreover, and $654,000 is appropriated for this work undertaken in 1920. Other items in the stringently diminished foreign program include $200,000 to support the League of Red Cross Societies, $22,000 for nurses' training schools instituted by the Red Cross abroad, and $600,000 for liquidation of the general Red Cross foreign relief program.

Prepared for Emergencies

For disaster relief the Red Cross has set aside $750,000, and for emergencies in Chapter work $500,000 to be available for domestic, insular and foreign demands. This is more than $395,000 above last year's expenditures. For service and assistance to the 3,300 Chapters and their branches $1,236,000 is provided by the National organization. Other budget items of importance in the domestic program include $200,000 for assistance to other organizations and education institutions for training Red Cross nurses and workers; $100,000 for Roll Call assistance furnished to Chapters; $100,000 for unforeseen contingencies. Of the total budget less than $500,000 is allotted for management in the National organization. No cash estimate, of course, is possible to weigh the value of the service by volunteers in the Chapters.

Everything may be terribly cut and dried certainly with a married woman, except this! She never knows what her husband will get mad at next.

Lose Weight When Submerged.
Water has a buoyant effect. Any object weighs less in water than in air. The decreased weight is equal to the weight of the water displaced. When you get a chance, hold a rock under water and notice its heaviness; then lift it above the water and feel its increased weight.

First Use of Khaki in Army.
When volunteer troops were called for the Spanish-American war it was found that the heavy dark-blue uniform was too warm for service in the tropics. A service uniform of khaki cloth was therefore introduced. In 1902 the whole dress regulation of the army was changed.

In Case of Fire.
Do not pull down the draperies that are on fire and thus spread the flames. remove all objects nearby and with a wet broom smother the burning pieces as they fall.

Virtue in Rising From Defeat.
There is something solid and doughty in the man that can rise from defeat, the stuff of which victories are made in due time, when we are able to choose our position better and the sun is at our back.—Lowell.

Lily of the Valley.
The number of its names testifies to the popularity of the lily of the valley. Prettiest of all these is "ladder to heaven," which refers to its quality of purity and humility. The French call it "Muguet de Mai," the Germans, "Mai Blume."

THE BURNT MOTH

By GRACE W. ABBOTT

In her bitterness she had dubbed herself that—"The Burnt Moth"—back in those dark, prison workshop days from which she had just escaped. Even as the worm, enveloped in its cocoon, breaks from its bondage into a beautiful thing of gauzy wings and gay colors, only to be destroyed in the flame of the candle, so had she broken from the squalid surroundings of her home life into the gayer life of the city, only to burn her delicate wings in the flame of crime. For hers was a crime. Desperate envy and longing for the beautiful things of life had led her to the first timid venture from the path of righteousness, success in her theft had encouraged her to greater crimes, until the purity of her girl's soul was smothered with greed and lawlessness. Then—detection and prison, where she learned her bitter lesson, where she lost her joyousness, her faith, and her sweetness—and she was only twenty-two.

Now—once again she was free, but such a sight as she presented, shuffling listlessly along the park path. She dropped on the first bench she came to, utterly dejected, tired, hungry and alone.

Martin Leonard had taken a short cut through the park to his club and had succumbed to the beauty of the spring night. A sort of holiness crept over him, appealed to his better self, and he walked along purged of the baser thoughts of the day. Suddenly the figure on the bench attracted his attention. How could anyone droop so on such a night? He approached the bench slowly, warily, but the sound of a dry sobbing assured him of real trouble, and he dropped beside the girl. Startled, she raised her face from her hands, strangely pathetic in the pale light.

"Don't be frightened," he reassured her. "I heard you crying and I want to know if I can help you."

Dumbly she stared at him, uttering no sound.

He took her hands. They were like ice.

"Come, come, this will never do," he said, briskly. "Tell me all about it."

After a while his persistence and kindness drew from her the sordid story, and then for a while both were silent—the successful young man and the little waif. Finally he began to talk gently, not looking at her, telling in a dreamy sort of way about the wonders of the springtime, so apparent all around them. He called her attention to the newness of the leaves, the grasses, the fresh beauty of the flowers, the peacefulness that was like a benediction.

"And people can be like that, you know. They start out in the spring of life in all their beauty and fresh, young strength, and they wander away and do things they ought not to, and yet, each day to them may be a spring-time, that gives them a chance to start over again, like the trees and the flowers, to prove to the world that what is passed is not forever—that we can show them the real goodness that is ours." He paused, and found her big eyes, wide with wonder, like a child's fixed upon his face. "See?" he finished, kindly.

"You—mean that there is a chance for me to start my life over, like the flowers, and—"

He nodded.

He took her home to his mother that night, and that good lady took her to her heart, and put her to bed. In the morning she found her sleeping quietly with traces of tears on her cheeks, but a serene expression within.

Kindness and care brought the little waif back to health, and instilled into her heart an undying love for her benefactors. She studied stenography and proud was she when she displayed with quivering lips the first honest money she had ever earned.

Martin's heart had long ago been the little girl's own personal property. He adored the ground she walked on, yet there was never a sign until this day when she held out her money to him, eyes filled with unshed tears.

"Oh, Marty, it's you I have to thank for all this—you wonderful man; and please, now, Marty, I shall go away and not bother you more, I can earn my own living. I can show the world now, Marty—" the tears choked her, and she stopped.

The man beside her caught her in his arms, but she struggled fiercely against him.

"No! Marty, please! No!" she cried desperately, but he held her tightly, telling of his love. She did not relax, but raised her face to him, murmuring, "No, Marty, darling—you can't love me—you can't—I'm—a thief—and—a—a—convict!"

"Sada," he said, his dark eyes fixed on her face. "You must never, never in all your life again say those words. You are not a thief. You were a thief, and you paid the penalty. Now you are the purest little flower that ever came out in spring, and I want you to be my wife. You say that you are grateful to me. Sada—can't you see I need you now?"

With a little cry she came to him.

"Oh, Marty—I'd give you my life!"

Those in Martin Leonard's world never heard where he met his charming little wife, yet never had there been such a devoted couple, and when each springtime came around, the two would go off together and come back with that strange happiness that no one but little Mother Leonard could ever understand.

Hens in Many Flocks Troubled with Worms

Inquiries and specimens of sick chickens that have been received from scores of farmers in all parts of the state during the last few months by the veterinary department of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station indicate that many Kentucky poultry flocks are dangerously infested with worms, veterinarians of the station say. Practically all hens that have not been treated probably are troubled with a few internal parasites although the number is not large enough to be serious in a number of cases. In cases where the worms have become serious, hens lose weight, despite the fact that they are eating heartily, and finally die. Veterinarians and poultrymen at the station have suggested that farmers take steps to rid their birds of the parasites before winter.

Whether or not worms are responsible for the death of fowls can be determined by opening the intestines with a pair of shears and observing the tract from the gizzard to the caeca, commonly known as the two blind sacks. If worms are the cause of death, they usually are quite evident in large numbers in the small intestine. Tapeworms, distinguished by the well defined segments segments that make up their length, and wire worms, usually are most common in this part of the tract. Worms in the caeca are small and thread-like and usually measure from a quarter to half inch long.

In treating for tape worms, a tablespoonful of concentrated lye is added to a gallon of mash and steeped for two hours. The treatment for wire worms is made by covering a pound of chopped tobacco stems with water and steeping for two hours after which this mixture is added to a gallon of mash. In giving either of the treatments to hens, they are taken off feed the night before and fed the feed mixture the following noon or afternoon. If necessary, the treatments should be repeated in about one week. It is well to follow the tobacco treatment with a dose of epsom salts using one pound for 100 hens in the drinking water.

Move lively. You can't keep in touch with the world while lagging behind.

Every man should write his own epitaph for his tombstone. He knows what to leave off.

If you were to call a preacher a middleman he might vigorously object, and yet that is exactly what he is when he ties the customary knot.

The death of the soldier bonus bill did not surprise anyone. The boys should have demanded it in advance.

HIGHEST PRICES FOR MARKET HAY

Farmers' Bulletin Discusses Merits of Consignment and Straight-Sales Methods.

MANY DETAILS ARE EXPLAINED

Shipper Must Consider Conditions and Determine Which Course Is Most Advantageous—Simple Rules to Keep in Mind.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The merits of the consignment method and the straight-sales method of marketing hay are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1285, Business Methods of Marketing Hay, by G. A. Collier, recently issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. In addition, chapters are devoted to trade rules, when and where to sell hay, billing and invoicing shipments, and loss and damage claims. Explanations are given therein for some of the principal trade terms and suggestions are offered as to how the various aids to marketing may be applied by the producer or shipper.

Two Methods Explained.

The consignment method consists in shipping to brokers or commission merchants, who act as the shipper's representative in selling his hay on the market. By the straight-sales method the shipper sells his hay at a fixed price, either at the point of shipment or point of destination at a certain specified time. The shipper must consider conditions and decide which method is the more advantageous to use, for the method that may be advantageous one week may be not at all profitable the next.

It is important to know the preferences of the various markets, for it is the buyer's preference that prevails. In general, New England and Eastern markets prefer large five or six-wire bales weighing from 175 to 215 pounds. Southeastern, Southern, and Southwestern markets prefer small two or three-wire bales weighing from 75 to 100 pounds, and ranging in size from 14 by 16 inches to 17 by 22 inches by about 36 to 48 inches in length. In the Central Western markets the 17 by 22-inch bale is probably the most generally used, and on the Pacific Coast both this size and the large bale prevail almost exclusively.

To avoid differences between buyer and seller it is suggested that a few simple rules be kept in mind. The seller should state clearly all necessary factors, including quality and quantity of hay, time at or within which shipment can be made, routing, rates, price, and terms of payment. All sales should be confirmed by letter, stating all terms included in the original offer. When confirmation is received from the buyer any items that appear incorrect should be corrected immediately. Since much of such business is transacted by telephone or telegraph brevity is necessary, but a few extra words will often save much trouble and money. Sample telegrams covering various conditions are given in the bulletin.

Best Time to Market.

The time of marketing makes a great deal of difference in the price received for hay. Statistics compiled by the department and tabulated in this publication show that for a period of ten years ending in 1921 the highest average prices at two large markets were reached in April for prairie and alfalfa hay, and in May for timothy. The months of highest price are just before the new crop begins to come on the market.

Hay producers and shippers, says the bulletin, should secure all the information possible bearing on the marketing of hay. They may keep well informed by watching the reports prepared periodically by the Department of Agriculture. Copies of the bulletin may be obtained by addressing the department at Washington, D. C.

BEST TOP SILAGE FOR EWES

Material Will Increase Flow of Milk at Lambing Time—Gradually Increase Feeding.

Best top silage will increase the flow of milk of ewes at lambing time. It is best to start feeding only about one pound per head daily and gradually to increase the quantity to three pounds per day. The udder may become feverish if this caution is not observed.

Why The Majestic Saves MONEY

Its cold-riveted construction makes it heat-tight, and a fuel-saver—permanently so. Majestic joints contain no stove putty—they need none—never will. Charcoal iron body, by test, resists rust 300 per cent better than steel. The only fair way to figure the cost of a Majestic is against the cost of two or three cheap ranges. DEMOCRATIC TICKET
FOR CONGRESS
HON. RALPH GILBERT

Is your eyesight good? Make use of it—read everything in this paper. Just skimming through it is like snatching the husks and overlooking the kernels of corn. Rushing through its pages as you do through life will cause you to miss many items of news that are of value to you.

Has the United States government been duped and tricked into committing an act of folly?

Our government was prompt in the disbanding of its great army and the scrapping of its navy. This was in accordance with the provisions of the Washington conference agreement.

The army has vanished, and but a shell remains.

The navy is sadly depleted and most of its teeth have been drawn.

Munitions have disappeared, and the spirit of patriotism has waned.

Our means of adequate defense against sudden attack no longer exists.

Now comes the startling information that Washington has abruptly called a halt in the wrecking of our fighting ships. We are also told that nations have ignored their governments and have done no real scrapping of ships at all.

At the time of the Washington conference many writers and others warned the government against placing implicit faith in the pacific intentions of governments across the water.

Present facts would indicate their warning was well timed, but quite in vain.

What next?

Are you always right in your judgment?

Many people think they are—no person ever is.

Nineteen hundred years we had one perfect man, whose judgment was never at fault. Because of his perfection he died upon a cross, his agony shared by thieves.

Since then the world has never known another.

Why, then, should we, humble mortals that we be, imagine that our judgment is never at fault, or that we are incapable of falling in error?

The next time you get into argument, and lose your temper, and are on the point of resorting to force, stop and think of the years that have flown since the manager ennobled the beginning and the blood stained cross witness the end of perfection in mankind.

It is nearly possible that you may sometimes be in error.

If a merchant, or a banker, or a farmer, or an editor becomes involved in a row with his employees and has to close down his business for weeks or months, he accepts his loss as a man should.

The coal operators, however, are not of this class. They are saddling their loss onto the public in the shape of enormously increased prices of coal, and are profiteering in a conscienceless and shameless manner.

And since Washington appears unwilling to perform its duty, the public becomes the goat and pays its pound of flesh.

This is the best country under the sun. It will be an even better one when you do your full duty as a citizen. America needs the best that is in each of her sons.

There's a Reason

Many husbands resent the waning of congeniality in the home, and this resentment leads to estrangements that often end in the divorce courts.

It never occurs to them that they may be mainly responsible for such an unfortunate condition of affairs.

In his courting days a young man is very attentive to the lady of his choice.

Nothing within his means is too good for her. She is the constant recipient of endearing terms, the choicest of gifts, and solicitous attentions.

All of these are pleasing to the young girl just entering the door of matrimony, and she confidently expects them to continue throughout the years of married life.

In time they marry, and all runs smoothly and sweetly until the inevitable jar occurs. That jar begins to peel off the glamour, and soon the young man begins to think occasionally, and then more frequently, of his friends on the outside, and of the good times he had with "the boys."

While the thoughts of the husband are thus occupied, the mind of the young wife turns to the many beautiful things that were promised for the home—but are not.

This is the beginning of a road that is long, and weary of travel.

The evening fireside finds the husband's chair vacant quite frequently, but the wife is in hers—alone.

She notices the difference—feels it—resents it.

And when resentment enters, congeniality disappears.

Builder and Destroyer

Bickering, fault finding and back biting will retard the growth of any town. There can be no real prosperity where these are uppermost in the minds of a considerable portion of the population.

Consideration and energetic co-operation will materially advance the interests of any community. These form the groundwork of all great municipalities.

Natural advantages have much to do with future success, but natural advantages alone will not suffice. Co-operation is an essential element, but it never marches side by side with bickering and fault finding. The latter are destroyers—not builders.

Possibly we are not overburdened by the destroying element in this community, but such as we have is entirely too much.

Community advancement means personal security to the individual, and this is best achieved through energetic and persistent co-operation.

Builder, or Destroyer—which are you?

Why Hold Him Back?

Every young man is entitled to a fair opportunity in the business and social world.

He is entitled to be judged by his own mental and moral qualifications, and not by the standard of the parents who brought him into the world.

Such is sometimes, but not often, the case.

Many a young man of great promise is seriously hampered by the reputation of one or both of his parents. The sins of the father are visited upon the son, and the innocent youth suffers for the acts of the guilty adult.

This is true because as a civilized people we are not yet entirely civilized. A polished veneer covers the surface, but often fails to penetrate to the heart.

Give the young man a fair chance, and his own acts make or break him.

JUDGE BINGHAM TAKES $600,000 BURLEY STOCK

Leader of Tobacco Co-operative Again Manifests His Confidence in System

Old Officers are Re-Elected

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 5th.—For the second time evidencing his absolute confidence in the success of the co-operative plan for marketing burley tobacco, Judge Robert W. Bingham, of Louisville, who led personally and with his newspapers the campaign for the organization of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, late Wednesday subscribed for $600,000 of the $720,000 of warehouse stock available and thus furnished the funds necessary for the financing of the warehouse end of the business until next year.

Judge Bingham, at the meeting of bankers at Lexington at which the first advances on the tobacco delivered last fall were raised, made a loan of a million dollars to the Association, out of a total of $5,500,000 which was advanced by the banks of the district and by individuals for ninety days, but which was repaid within forty days.

The chief business of the meeting yesterday, which was the first meeting of the new board, was the provision for warehouse matters, the re-election of officers, which was done unanimously, and hearing reports from the directors as to the feeling in their respective districts. The latter showed that the growers stand solidly behind the officials in their handling of the affairs of the Association and that they approve the policy of President James C. Stone in the orderly merchandising of the crop.

Applause greeted the statement by Judge Bingham that he would take $600,000 of the issue of warehouse stock and President Stone said it would be easy to place the remaining $120,000 of the issue.

On the assembling of the new board at the offices, 620 South Broadway, Wednesday, Mr. Stone was elected temporary chairman pending the organization and Secretary and Treasurer H. Lee Earley was made temporary secretary. The old officers were unanimously re-elected as follows:

President and General Manager, James C. Stone, Lexington; Director of Warehouses, Ralph M. Barker, Carrollton; Vice Presidents, James N. Kehoe, Maysville, and Bush W. Allin, Harrodsburg; Secretary and Treasurer, H. Lee Earley, Louisville. Executive Committee, James C. Stone, James N. Kehoe, Bush W. Allin, Judge Robert W. Bingham and John B. Winn.

Graders for the Association, President Stone announced, will aid the growers in preparing their crops for marketing, teaching those who desire aid how to strip, tie and grade their tobacco properly before bringing it to market. Officials and directors of the Association also will address Saturday and Monday meetings of the growers between now and the close of the books November 6th., telling them exactly what has been done in the handling of their business by their officials.

Sunbeam Band Adds Many New Members

The Sunbeams Band of Freedom church met at the Nina School house Friday afternoon, Oct. 6th. Bertha Sebastian lead the meeting. Subject "God's Love Gift." Scripture lesson, John 3:16.

The roll call showed 18 members present. Dues $5cts. after an interesting program being given. The Lookout committee reported 13 new members added to the band, making a total of 32 members.

Bertha Prewitt was awarded a Sunbeam pin for having secured the greatest number of members.

The report of the Personal Service Committee proves they will soon have finished a beautiful star quilt for the Children's Home at Glendale, Kentucky.

The Sunbeams were dismissed to meet again Nov. 3rd. Emma Mae Sebastian leads the meeting. Topic, "Others."

Baptist Church News

The Ladies Aid report splendid success in their exchange held last Saturday. They wish to thank all who contributed in any way either by furnishing articles for sale or by purchasing the articles that were offered for sale. They are also indebted to Hamilton and Dickerson for the use of their store window and other courtesies shown. The Aid will hold a business meeting at the home of Mrs. Powell on Friday evening of this week for the payment of dues and the discussion of plans for work. All ladies of the church are urged to come.

We are looking forward to some happy and profitable midweek services for the next month in the study of "Church Membership." We have considered the meaning of church membership and the Bible as our rule of faith and practice. Our topics for next week is "The Church and its Members."

The attendance at our Sunday School services is good, but it will require more grace and courage to keep up the standard during the unpleasant weather of fall and winter. As we stated last week we are planning and praying for the best year in our church history, and we covet the cooperation of every member in helping to answer that prayer. Our topic for next Sunday will be "The Squatter's Inheritance," an exposition of Deuteronomy 11:24. In the evening we will begin a short series of sermons on some great world crises. The Bible is God's chart book of the ages, and they that are wise will study it to become rightly adjusted to the plan and purpose of God in the world today. The supreme business of the Church should be soul winning, and the Christian who is awake to the fact that we are facing another world crisis will be the most alert in seeking to save the lost. Come with your Bibles and study this all-important theme.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend our services.

Ancient Olympian Games.

For the first 50 years from 776 to 725 B. C. the Olympic games were merely a 300-yard foot race. Then came the Pentathlon—running, jumping, wrestling, discus throwing and javelin throwing. Next was added the Pancratium, a combination of boxing and wrestling. Later chariot races. Athletes were required to train ten months and spend one month before the contests at Olympia.

The Palace Pigeons.

One of the favorite roosting places of the ringdove or wood pigeon is in the grounds of Buckingham palace. Soon after three o'clock in the afternoon now they may be observed gathering in the upper branches of the tallest trees. On one of the stormy days, such as we had recently, when the western sky is aflame, the delicate outline of the house and towers against the setting sun is blotted with the forms of scores of roosting birds, huddling with huddled feathers upon their windy perch.

EXECUTOR'S SALE

The undersigned as executors of William C. Fish, deceased, will on

Saturday, Oct 14th

AT TEN A. M.

offer for sale at public auction on the premises, about one-half mile from Paint Lick, Kentucky on the Madison County side, and fronting the Richmond and Lancaster turnpike, the farm owned by him consisting of 210 acres of land.

This farm is ideally located, being about half way between Richmond and Lancaster and close to Paint Lick, one of the best small towns in Central Kentucky, and having a large brick graded school. The neighborhood is the very best that can be found anywhere. The farm itself is a very fertile farm, which was occupied by Mr. Fish for many years before he moved to Richmond. Has been well taken care of and the soil will raise the very best tobacco or any other crops raised in Kentucky. This farm is improved by a large frame residence, beautifully situated on top of a hill, with a large yard filled with shade trees and shrubbery of every kind. Has a splendid garage, and all necessary out-buildings. It also has a large tobacco barn that will house fifteen acres of tobacco, a splendidly constructed stock barn, well equipped, with a large cistern adjoining same. The farm is well watered, being supplied by an everlasting spring, with water trough already installed and a good pond, also two large cisterns at the residence. The farm is also improved by two tenant houses, one of them the old toll gate house on Richmond and Lancaster pike. About 65 acres of this farm was cultivated in corn and tobacco in 1922 and will be sown in rye by the present owner. About 25 acres was in rye in 1922 and the balance in grass.

TERMS: The farm will be sold for ten per cent cash on the day of sale and 23 1-3 per cent cash on the first day of January, 1923, at which time deed will be delivered and possession given. In case the purchaser desires, he will be permitted to execute bond with good security on the day of sale to pay one-third cash on January 1st., 1923, instead of paying ten per cent down. The purchaser will be given the option to pay the remainder as he desires, the whole in cash or if he prefers, may pay it in five equal installments, due one, two, three, four and five years from January 1st., 1923.

This farm is sold pursuant to the directions of the will of the late William C. Fish and bidding will be absolutely free and open, with no by-bidding of any kind permitted. Prospective purchasers are invited to inspect the premises now occupied by Mr. Luther Fish. There is no more desirable farm of 210 acres of land, considering location, fertility and improvements in Central Kentucky.

Where Was Your Little Girl Last Night?

(Western Recorder)

"Isn't my child having a grand time," muses the proud mother, as she contemplates the popularity of her daughter. "She is so popular with the boys that she is out every night with some boy and doesn't get in until after midnight. It is wonderful."

Does her popularity cause the boys who call, to stay at home in the parlor?

"No, they always take her out for a ride."

Poor old mother! Your daughter is having a grand time. Sure she is, but how?

Out every night on some lonesome road with the car parked?

Most of the popularity of these days is born in promiscuous love. The young libertines flock where the cheap love is the easiest.

"My little girl is different," is what you say! That is what you all say. That is what they all think and feel. Let me tell you something. You are not raising your girl right when you permit her to go out auto riding into the night. You are not giving her the chances she deserves. Your little girl is made up of the same flesh as anybody else's little girl; your little girl has the same emotions and impulses as anybody else's little girl, and is no different from anybody else's little girl. Every girl that drops to shame and degradation was once just as sweet and innocent and as pure-minded as your little girl. She was permitted to run at will with any man she met in autos late at night. That's the difference between your good little girl and the bad little girl. They are all good to start with. They all want to do right, every one of them. The descent is always gradual and it always follows the long auto rides into the night.

I am going to present the truth to you mothers, with the full projectile force of its naked hideousness. I tell you only the truth. The facts are worse than any fiction yet conceived by imaginative writers. You may get mad with me. I don't care. If you don't want to know what's going on don't read this. Throw it away. I am writing for those mothers who want to know exactly what is going on.

Let me paint a real picture, and you had best frame it and hang it on the wall of your memory.

The nice boy calls and sits in the parlor and kids you along a few minutes, and then he says to the girl he has come for, "Let's go." The nice boy and your girl depart into the night.

This story refers to the habitual night rider.

It is true as Holy Writ. They are barely out of sight before his arm slips snugly around her waist and she pulls up close to him to make the huggery more convenient. He is doing this unless he is a "positive stick," or a "human pill." If he is a regular he proceeds to pull a lot of cuss words. No young man is as faithful unless he can sling'em dirty. The greater his assortment of expletives the more he impresses the popular young thing with his worldliness.

If that isn't so, I'll quit right here. They bowl around the city, maybe to a dance for a short while, maybe to a salacious picture show.

And they sail out into the night. He has a favorite spot where he generally does his parking. If your girl is accustomed to parking, there is no argument. If she is not, he will find some excuse for parking. His mind has been on nothing else since he sat in the parlor and conversed with you. He may have engine trouble," or has to, "look for a flat," or is "just simply tired of driving, and we may as well sit here as in the parlor."

Sounds reasonable doesn't it? And they sit there.

Overhead the stars wink knowingly at each other, and the fence posts stand dimly out in the night, gaunt sentinels.

Flagrant breezes toy with the curls that drive from her pretty forehead and the nice boy holds her closer in his arms. Why not? Not a soul is near and it is nice to be held tightly by one you love. Why not? They are doing it in the pictures and no one thinks wrong of that. Why not? The story books are full of stories of girls in the arms of the ones they love. Why not? No one will ever know.

He vows of a love that is tender and enduring. He whispers sweet nothings into rapt ears. He presses a long ten-minute kiss to her lips. Her cheeks grow warm. There steals over her a strange new feeling that comes to a maid when she is alone with a man, and held in his arms. He kisses her again and again those hot, warm kisses. Her head falls back limp in his arms—that is your little girl and the nice boy who just left your home.

This is a true picture of the girl who habitually goes night riding down shady lanes as God Himself can draw it.

I didn't go so far with my story as that couple could go if those rides are permitted.

Where was your little girl last night?

"Why my little girl was at a dance."

Sure, she was there for a while. "My girl wouldn't do such a thing as that."

That is what they all say, but nightly thousands of cars are out there on the public roads parked with the lights out. Somebody's little girl is out there wrapped in somebody's arms. Where was your little girl?

Don't go to making alibis. Just ask yourself if you really knew where she was.

Just reason with yourself a little while.

I am talking about the habitual night rider.

Where was your little girl last night?

Was she in the vast army of parked automobiles that flocked the land after nightfall?

Every road leading out of every city is flocked with parked cars and in many of these cars some libertine is seeking the downfall of some innocent girl.

And they say the world is getting better.

Don't take my word for it. Go and see! The sight is awaiting you any night on earth you see fit to go out and investigate.

Thousands of little girls are out there in those parked cars. Girls just as innocent as yours.

Where was your little girl last night? Are you sure?—Selected.

Points of Low Humidity.

According to the records of the weather bureau, the lowest relative humidity is found in some parts of Arizona, although it is possible that certain sections of the deserts in southern California, where there are no recording stations, may show lower relative humidities than Arizona.

Farm and Home News From Over Kentucky

The eradication of tuberculosis from McLean county dairy herds is going forward steadily, County Agent Robert H. Ford says. A total of 300 cows recently were tested in two weeks with the results that seven were found to be tuberculous.

The value of cover crops in protecting fields from erosion and leaching during the winter is receiving increased attention from Owsley county farmers, County Agent P. M. Frye says. More farmers are sowing winter oats for this purpose this fall than ever before in the history of the county.

Pulaski county farmers during the summer just past have carried on an intensive drive against the low producing hens in their poultry flocks, according to County Agent W. C. Wilson. A total of 15 demonstrations were held in different parts of the county to show farmers how to separate the hens that were still laying from those that had stopped to loaf until spring.

Twelve Oldham county farmers who are co-operating with County Agent Gordon B. Nance and the extension division of the College of Agriculture at Lexington have ordered a carload of limestone which will be used in demonstrations designed to show what this material will do in increasing crop yields.

A number of Marion county farmers are planning to find out what acid phosphate will do toward increasing their wheat yields. They have ordered a carload of the material which will be used in demonstrations that will be conducted on their farms in cooperation with the extension division of the College of Agriculture at Lexington and County Agent H. J. Childress.

Mother-To-Be, Read This—

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers. When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse. We had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

Note: Write for valuable free illustrated book, "Motherhood and the Baby," containing important information, which every expectant mother should have, and all about "Mother's Friend." In Bradford Regulator Company, B.A. 23, Atlanta, Ga. "Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists everywhere.

Good Care and Feed Make Fall Pigs Pay

Fall litters of pigs can be made a paying project on Kentucky farms provided the animals are given the right kind of care and fed a balanced ration, according to E. S. Good, head of the animal husbandry department of the College of Agriculture. In the past, some farmers have said there was no money in raising fall litters because the pigs did not grow out sufficiently to pay for the time in caring for them and the feed which they ate. Farmers who have carried out recommended practices in caring for their fall litters have demonstrated that this is not true.

"It must be remembered that if a sow is maintained for one litter of pigs that the expense on each pig is twice as great as it is when the sow is allowed two litters a year. Winters that are mild compared to those of northern states make Kentucky especially adapted for the raising of fall litters."

"At this time of the year, the sow with a fall litter should be on full feed and kept there, until her pigs are weaned at about eight weeks of age. After weaning the young animals can be put on a pasture of rye barley or wheat and allowed a mixture of seven parts of corn, three parts of middlings, and one part of tankage, being fed what they will clean up twice a day without waste. Excellent results also can be obtained by allowing the pigs corn in one self feeder and tankage in another. A good mineral mixture for the young animals can be made of equal parts of finely ground limestone and salt. They should be accustomed to this gradually after which it can be put in a self feeder. Raw bone meal improves this mixture. Another good mineral mixture can be made of two bushels of slack coal, two quarts of slaked lime, two pounds of salt, one bushel of wood ashes and one and one-fourth pounds of iron sulphate. The iron sulphate should be either dissolved or finely ground and all the materials mixed together."

"If the pigs are lousy at weaning time, they should be sprayed with crude oil, warm days being best for doing this. If there is reason to believe they are infested with worms, oil of chenopodium, which may be purchased at any drug store, should be given. Two cubic centimeters of the oil of chenopodium are given with about 30 cubic centimeters of castor oil to a pig weighing from 40 to 100 pounds."

Don't deceive yourself. It makes you an easy mark for others.

We have no comment to make on the booze situation. Comment is superfluous.

Be wary of the young woman who is sad and dispirited. It may be only a means to the end.

We thoroughly believe in fostering infant industries. That's the reason we say so many kind things of young people who get married.

Assignee Sale

OF

Real and Personal Property

As Assignee of Tom Tracy and Myrtle Tracy, the undersigned will on

Tuesday, Oct. 17th,

AT TEN O'CLOCK A. M.

sell on the premises the farm of Tom Tracy, consisting of 89 ACRES OF GOOD SANDSTONE LAND on the East side of Judson and Sugar Creek pike, about three miles from Lancaster. Said land has a 7-acre, new tobacco barn and tenant house on same.

At the same time and place, I will as Assignee of Myrtle Tracy sell 75 ACRES OF LAND, right across the road from the Tom Tracy farm. This is the farm formerly owned by J. D. Naylor.

On each of these farms there is a mortgage with the Federal Land Bank which has 32½ years to run or purchaser has privilege to pay same within 4½ years. This makes the sale on the very best terms. This is an opportunity to buy a good farm with very little capital as purchaser will only have to raise the amount over and above the long time mortgage debt to buy same.

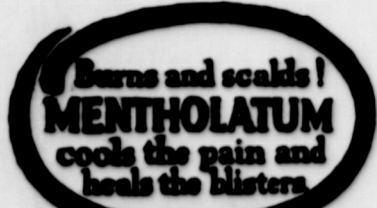

At the same time I will sell a lot of personal property, consisting of live-stock and farming implements.

Terms on said personal property: All sums under $25.00 cash; over that sum three month's time, with good note drawing interest from date.

RED CROSS WINNING IN FIGHT FOR HEALTH

Better, Stronger Citizenry Now
Emerging Out of Work in United States.

The American Red Cross as an evangelist of better health has looked its problem square in the face. How it accepted the task revealed to it in the nation's physical condition as brought out during the World War, and conscientiously applied its activities to correction forms a vivid chapter in the forthcoming annual report. Historically and practically, nursing is a basic work for the Red Cross. In its public health nursing service, in instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick, nutrition classes, first aid and life saving courses and health centers, the American Red Cross is applying effectively the lessons learned during the war and making for a healthier, stronger and better nourished citizenry.

The task of the Red Cross Public Health nurse in the 1,240 nursing services now operating throughout the country instructing their communities in health essentials and disease prevention is demonstrating the possibilities of human betterment and the great benefits of enlightenment.

During the last year 313 new public health nursing services were established by Red Cross Chapters, and several hundred services so convincingly proved their effectiveness that they were taken over by public authorities. In order to promote this work $30,000 was allotted to provide women to prepare themselves for public nursing. The home visits made by the 1,240 nurses aggregated nearly 1,500,000, visits to schools numbered 140,000, and in six months 1,250,000 school children were inspected by these nurses and where defects were found advised examination by physicians. In rural communities this service has made a very marked advance and has won thousands of converts to approved methods of disease prevention.

In home hygiene and care of the sick instruction, which fits the student in methods of proper care where illness is not so serious as to require professional service, the Red Cross conducted 3,884 classes during the last year, enrolled 2,356 instructors, 93,448 students and issued 42,656 certificates.

On June 30, 1922, nutrition service embraced 1,199 classes, with a total of 27,523 children and 2,589 enrolled dietitians. Seventy-eight food selection classes graduated 733 who received Red Cross certificates. In general health activities Red Cross Chapters maintained 377 health centers, serving as many communities, provided 38,751 health lectures for large audiences everywhere, while clinics numbered over 10,000.

Red Cross Gains Strength in All Foreign Fields

In insular possessions of the United States and in foreign lands the American Red Cross scored heavy gains during the last year, passing the previous membership high mark of 1918 by 4,261 and advancing the figure to 154,408. The Philippines take the lead, gaining nearly 100 per cent, now having 115,917 members. In Europe the 1921 Roll Call enrolled 11,125, with the Constantinople Chapter reporting 965, a gain of 33 members. China was 1,782 members, a gain of 596; the Little Virgin Islands have 1,000, while the Dominican Republic with 2,927 advanced from its previous high mark by 1,423 new members. Haiti, organized in 1920, now has nearly 1,000 enrolled. Mexico reports 354, a gain of 327 in one year. The American Red Cross has spread its membership over some 70 foreign lands and its Junior membership outside of the United States is close to 700,000.

Red Cross Water First Aid Makes Life-Saving Gain

More than 325 Chapters engaged in life saving or water first aid last year with the result that the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps has set a new high mark for enrollment and the number of qualified life savers developed. The influence of "learn to swim week" in many localities is reducing the water fatalities through instruction and the wider dissemination of resuscitation methods demonstrated by the Red Cross representatives. Excellent work has been done in teaching a large part of the American population how to take care of itself in the water. Growing appreciation for this Red Cross Life-Saving Service is shown by the compulsory instruction adopted in many cities for members of the police and fire departments in the prone pressure method of resuscitation.

Help to Help Others
You can't "give until it hurts"—for giving an American dollar to join the American Red Cross helps you to help others who are hurt and who need relief.

GUM-DIPPED CORDS

Most Miles per Dollar

Everywhere You Hear It -
Firestone Builds
the Finest Cords

HARDLY a day goes by but some one goes out of his way to tell us that Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords are the best tires built.

Cords—as only Firestone builds them—will give you many extra thousands of miles of wear. And for fall and winter driving there's nothing like them. The strong, resilient Firestone carcass of gum-dipped cords, can stand the hardest punishment.

With the reputation Firestone Cords hold, it is not surprising that so many motorists in this community have made them standard equipment. The demand for Firestone Cords in the last few months has broken all records.

Prices were never so low as they are now. Perhaps never again can mileage be sold so cheaply.

Decide now that you will get Most Miles per Dollar. Drop in any time and let's talk them.

Philadelphia Hosiery Center.

Philadelphia leads the world in the manufacture of hosiery and underwear.

Old Structures in Bavaria.

There are houses still standing in Nuremberg, Bavaria, that were built in 1080.

Feed on Dead Animals.

In the plantless depths of the ocean, the animals largely depend for their food supply upon the ceaseless rain of dead animals which sink through the miles of dark, cold water.

Early Mediums of Exchange.

Paying for a purchase with goods was practiced by the Egyptians early in history. Later rings of gold and also of copper were used as a medium of exchange, these being the forerunners of the earliest coins.

French Invented Keyless Watch.

The first keyless watch is said to have been made by a Frenchman in the year 1754.

System is Above All.

If I were asked what is one of the best mottos for a young man to adopt, I should say: "Be systematic." There is nothing like system. It should be evident in everything one does—in one's mode of living, in study, and in business.—Sir H. Woodman Burbidge.

Plague of Mice in Australia.

In one Australian wheat field 70,000 mice, weighing about a ton, were killed in one afternoon.

Superlative Unionism.

Steam Roller Driver (to gentleman who has slipped on a banana skin)—"Git up, guv'nor! Git up! If I pressed your trousers I'd have the Amalgamated Society of Trousers Pressers writin' a nasty letter to my union."—Windsor Magazine (London).

Cousins.

Cousin as a term of relationship means the children of brothers or sisters. Such children are first cousins to each other, or cousins-german. The children of first cousins are to each other second cousins, and so on. The child of a first cousin is to the first cousin of his father or mother a first cousin once removed.

GREEN MANURING ONE OF OLDEST METHODS USED TO IMPROVE SOIL

Red Clover Ranks High in Importance Among Leguminous Crops.

Although green manuring is one of the oldest methods used to maintain or to increase the productivity of the soil, there have been enough new developments in the practice and in the plants used for the purpose in recent years to make desirable the publication by the United States Department of Agriculture of Farmers' Bulletin 1250, Green Manuring, by C. V. Piper and A. J. Pieters.

The subjects discussed range from a definition of the term "green manuring," which means "the turning under of any crop, while green or soon after ripening, for the purpose of soil improvement," to descriptions of the many crops that are used for land betterment in most regions of the United States and in some other countries. The use of special green-manure crops, says the bulletin, is much more general in the South than in the North. In the semi-arid regions, for reasons made clear, under dry farming green manures are not used, but in irrigated areas in the West orchardists depend upon them to a great extent to increase the yield of fruit.

Crops Benefit Soil.

These crops that are grown primarily as roughage for feeding the soil produce both chemical and physical effects that are of benefit to plants that succeed them. When a green-manure crop is turned under, the various fertilizing elements that have gone into the making of the crop are returned to the soil, and a quantity of organic matter not before in the soil is added, and, in addition to improving the physical condition, serves as food for beneficial bacteria. One of the most important functions of organic matter in the soil is to keep up the nitrogen supply. The bulletin gives three ways in which this is done: (1) Growth of nodule bacteria on roots of leguminous plants; (2) the making of nitrates by soil bacteria from organic nitrogen in the soil; and (3) growth of bacteria and molds that feed on plant waste in the soil and take nitrogen directly from the air. These processes may be stimulated by adopting the proper practices and suitable crops.

Satisfactory Cover Crops.

Legumes are of course the most satisfactory cover crops under most conditions, and all legumes do not have the same strain of nodule bacteria. For instance, that of clover is different from that of alfalfa, and that of the cowpea is distinct from that of the soy bean. These selective associations of plants and bacteria make inoculation of the soil necessary where the crop has not been previously grown, either by scattering soil from a field where the crop to be sown has been grown recently or by using an artificial culture. A strain of bacteria will often inoculate different where the soil is poor and in need of organic matter, a green crop may often be worth more if turned under. It is known that the turning under of a green-manure crop may effect the yield of subsequent crops even to the third year, and this fact should have weight when the question of selling a legume hay crop or turning it under is considered.

A Regular Farm Practice.

Green manuring in some form should be part of the regular farm practice on most of the farms east of the hundredth meridian and on irrigated land elsewhere. Rotations should be arranged so as to work in a green-manure crop between regular crops without sacrificing direct money or feed crops. Preference should be given to a legume if possible. The value of these crops is determined by the quantity of humus formed, measured by the tonnage of the crop, the physical changes brought about in the soil, and the quantity of nitrogen taken from the air and added to the soil. There are probably other factors that are as yet but little understood. It is said that green manure in orchards checks certain diseases and improves the quality of the fruit.

Order of Importance.

The leguminous crops grown in this country listed in the bulletin in order of importance are: Red clover, alfalfa, alsike clover, sweet clover, cowpeas, peanuts, soy beans, velvet beans, crimson clover, field peas, vetch, Japan clover, bur clover, and white clover. A few others, such as beggarweed, grass peas, fenugreek, and horse beans are grown to a small extent in restricted localities. Non-leguminous crops that are considered as useful green manures are grasses, buckwheat, weeds, and some plants of the mustard family that are used more in Europe than in this country.

The bulletin contains more than 40 pages of valuable information on these plants and the ways of handling them; also tables of results that show their value in increasing returns. A copy may be obtained free by addressing the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

ERADICATION OF ALL WEEDS

One of Most Serious Agricultural Problems is Prompt Destruction of Noxious Plants.

There is nothing which has a graver menace to agriculture than our noxious weeds. It is all right to think of serious marketing problems and economic subjects, but the solution of these is not a bit more important than the prompt eradication of Canada thistle, quack grass and other noxious weeds. Town, city and village must lend mutual strength to the warfare on weeds. It is a community problem, a personal issue.

ROBBING SOIL OF FERTILITY

Of Utmost Importance That Land Be Kept Fertile With Manure and Phosphorus.

If farmers continue to rob the soil of its natural store of fertility, what is the next generation of human beings going to do for food? Our best soils can produce profitably only 30 to 40 years unless they are kept fertile with manure, clovers, and finally phosphorus.

Dr. J. Camocasse, in a recent number of the Paris Bulletin Medical, says that his extensive experience has proved that when breast milk is out of the question, goat's milk is a safer and better substitute for it than cow's milk. But he insists that the goat must be on the premises, and the milk taken raw. The idea is to draw the milk fresh for each feeding.

ent closely related legumes. Alfalfa, bur-clover, and sweet clover nodules are produced by the same strain; a different strain inoculates most of the vetches, as well as the field and garden peas; still another strain is apparently used in common by red, white, alsike, and crimson clovers.

The question often arises, whether a crop should be turned under for green manure, fed on the farm, or sold as hay. The authors sum up the argument as follows: Where a forage crop can be grazed or advantageously fed and the manure returned to the land, this will be found most profitable.
